Summary: A customer (procurement lead) discusses Lumen Street Retail's competitive positioning versus the two largest rivals, with emphasis on how off-price apparel demand has shifted over the past four quarters.

Q: How would you characterize the last two quarters? A: The expert describes a gradual normalization after an unusually strong prior year, with pricing holding better than volumes. Q: What should investors watch? A: Renewal outcomes in the largest accounts and any change in the discounting posture of the two main rivals.
